Assessment Details
Assessment Purpose	The purpose of this assessment is to apply advanced management knowledge and professional skills to address a real-world leadership challenge in an organisational context. Building on the planning work completed in Assessment 1, this assessment requires you to engage in a structured inquiry process, critically analyse the business environment, and develop evidence-based recommendations that contribute to organisational improvement. You will also refine your ability to communicate professionally by preparing a high-impact executive summary report and delivering a group presentation to the assessment panel (Company Executive(s), Academic Supervisor). This assessment reflects the core principles of action learning: collaboration, reflection, and problem-solving, and is designed to strengthen your strategic thinking, inquiry capability, and stakeholder engagement skills.
Artificial Intelligence (AI) Use	AI USE AUTHORISED In this assessment there are certain elements authorised for use of artificial intelligence (AI) tools to support achievement of the learning outcomes. This is in accordance with the guidelines and the assessment instructions below. Please contact your Lecturer for further information. Guidelines for authorised use of AI You are recommended to use AI tools from the list below: • Microsoft Co-Pilot, ChatGPT, Claude or other large-language models (LLMs) • Canva, Visme or other similar presentation and visual design tools • Grammarly You can use these AI tools in the following ways: • Clarify complex topics by asking questions to better understand concepts and frameworks in leadership, strategy, change management or stakeholder analysis. • Draft or refine short passages of text for your report and the presentation (e.g. definitions or introductory lines) which you will then critically adapt and contextualise. • Seek Guidance on presenting data insights or benchmarking findings professionally • Generate visual templates or layout suggestions for your group presentation slides. • Enhance grammar, tone, and coherence for professional communication in your report and presentation. • Structure your thinking (e.g. ask AI to suggest outlines, or brainstorming prompts).

	• Check logic or readability in your written work before submission. You cannot use AI in the oral delivery of your group presentation or Q&A session. Any use of AI tools must be appropriately acknowledged. If the AI tools you wish to use are not included on the list provided, you should discuss this with your Lecturer first. Follow the ICMS Style Guide for how to reference and acknowledge the use of AI: ICMS Style Guide. You CANNOT use AI tools to generate your whole assessment submission. IMPORTANT NOTE: • Refer to the Artificial Intelligence in Education (AIED) Framework and Use of Artificial Intelligence (AI) in Assessment Guidelines for further information. • Engaging with AI tools without authorisation can result in a breach of academic integrity. • Using AI in an unethical or irresponsible manner, such as copying or paraphrasing the output without citation or evidence; or using the output as your own work without verification or integration; or using the output to misrepresent your knowledge or skills, is considered a form of academic misconduct. Refer to the Academic Integrity Policy and Procedures for more details.
Assessment Instructions	This assessment builds on the planning work completed in Assessment 1 and requires your group (or pair) to present final recommendations to address the identified leadership challenge or business opportunity within your host organisation. This involves both a written summary report and a formal presentation to a panel including academic and industry stakeholders. The written report should present a coherent analysis and evidence-based recommendations that address the business challenge your team selected in Assessment 1. It should demonstrate how your team applied critical inquiry and collaborative decision-making throughout the project. Use the following structure to guide your report (approx. 2,000 words): 1. Context and Challenge • Briefly restate the leadership challenge identified in Assessment 1. • Explain the relevance of the challenge to the organisation's strategic objectives. • Outline the scope and purpose of your action learning project. 2. Analysis of the Internal and External Environment

- Use anonymised secondary data or information only (e.g., open access industry databases, benchmarking, internal documentation such as strategic plans, annual reports) and other anonymised internal data or documents provided by the host including supervisor-provided context and consultation with stakeholders.
- Apply relevant management tools or frameworks (e.g., SWOT, PESTLE, Porters Five Forces) to identify key findings from internal and external operations and market conditions.
- Highlight critical gaps, risks, and opportunities related to the challenge.

No interviews, surveys, or identifiable personal data may be collected. All data must be publicly available or provided by the host supervisor.

3. Solutions and Recommendations

- Propose and justify a set of strategic or operational recommendations.
- Explain how these address the business challenge, align with business goals and strategies, and reflect your analysis.

4. Implementation Plan

- Present a high-level, realistic implementation and change management plan.
- Identify resources required, timelines, internal responsibilities, and potential risks.
- This plan can be attached as an appendix and is excluded from the word count.

5. Cost-Benefit Evaluation

- Provide a reasoned estimate of potential costs and benefits (financial, operational, reputational).
- Where possible, link the value of your solution to business performance outcomes (e.g. ROI, engagement, efficiency).

The report should be written as an executive summary for a business audience. Use professional language, logical structure, and concise explanations.

The rubric for assessment parts A and B is included in Appendix 1.

This is an educational activity without primary human research and your assessment submission and presentation must adhere to this.

You must only use non-identifiable and authorised sources of information. Review the Student Checklist for Ethics (provided on the Moodle site).

Part B: Group Presentation to Panel

The presentation gives your team the opportunity to communicate your ALP findings to a professional audience, including academic staff and your host organisation's executive.

Presentation guidelines:

- Length: 20-minute presentation + 10-minute Q&A

	• Slides: 12–18 (use PowerPoint, Google Slides, or Canva) • Delivery: In person (Week 12), with all team members participating equally Your presentation must include: • An overview of the business challenge • Key insights from your internal and external analysis • Summary of recommended solutions • Implementation roadmap and expected benefits • A confident and professional delivery tailored to a senior leadership audience The presentation is assessed on content, clarity, logic, creativity, teamwork and the ability to respond to live questions during the Q&A. The panel will receive your written summary report in advance to review your project background and proposed recommendations. The rubric for the assessment used by the panel is included below.
